

INHS Newsletter – December 2016

Dear INHS members,

Welcome to the final newsletter of 2016. It has been a very tumultuous year with incredible events that have shaken many of us to the core. We hope that the INHS has served those who wish to find out more about how we can better understand hate speech and hate crime, and importantly how we as a global society can continue to challenge prejudice in all its forms. As the year draws to a close we feel that the Network is needed more now than ever in bringing academics, practitioners and policy makers together to face the challenges ahead.

In this month's newsletter we provide links to the latest publications on hate speech and hate crime, our latest blog written by Professor Dunbar on the erosion of social support as a function of Alt-Right Xenophobia in the US, and links to a number of interesting events. In case you missed it we have also added a new cyber hate initiatives tab to the website. If you think that anything is missing from the website (especially information on events being held outside of Europe) please do let us know by contacting us. We would also like to encourage our members to contribute to the blog. So if you would like to write something for us please get in touch!
